

Dyke Urges Change in Court Attitude

Mayor William D. Dyke said Wednesday a change in the "attitudes of the judiciary" is one step needed to stem such acts of violence as Monday's bombing at the University of Wisconsin.

The mayor implied that court decisions of recent years aimed at protecting rights of defendants have encouraged crimes.

HE SAID the person responsible for Monday's bombing could have been among the onlookers of the wreckage later in the day, thinking that the chances of prosecution are slim.

"I would hope our judiciary can be as concerned with the rights of the widow and three children as they are with the accused," Dyke said, referring to the wife and children of Robert E. Fassnacht, the 33-year-old physicist killed in the blast.

THE MAYOR'S comments reflected a similar tone which he has used after other incidents of violence. He frequently has stated that court decisions have played a role in setting the stage for possible criminal acts.

MAYOR DYKE

He did not specify any judges or decisions.

Speaking at his weekly news conference, Dyke said he has not "sought to make an endless series of public statements" regarding the bombing.

"Words are not going to be much good," he said.

"WE HAVE to try and find a way out of the mess which surrounds our institutions. The survival of (the University) will take efforts of students and faculty to recognize the trust which has been given them by the people of the state," he said.

Dyke called for "the people at

Two Hurt in Blast Now 'Satisfactory'

A security watchman and a student researcher, injured in Monday's pre-dawn bomb blast at the University of Wisconsin Army Mathematics Research Center, were both reported "satisfactory" Wednesday night at University Hospital recovering from explosion injuries.

Norbert Sutter, 56, Rt. 3, Madison, the campus guard, was being treated for multiple cuts and bruises. David Schuster, 28, of 641½ E. Dayton St., was recovering from a fractured left shoulder and multiple abrasions from being pinned nearly three hours under the rubble.

Hospital officials suggested no visitors for the two men without their doctors' approval.

Peace Vets Equate City, Viet Bombings

The Madison Veterans for Peace has issued a statement equating the attack on the Army Mathematics Research Center with U.S. bombing in Vietnam and Cambodia, and stating the group is "appalled at the arrogance."

The statement said that both the attack on the campus and the bombings in Southeast Asia were executed with the same callous disregard for life.

the University to develop a will that this kind of riotous destruction can't be a part of the University."

The mayor said violence "won't go away until society gets together and says it won't tolerate it."

Ten years ago, Dyke said, "You'd assume this was happening in Guatemala, Peru, or Paris."

3 Firebombs Lit at Conrad's Home

Three firebombs, described by police as Molotov cocktail incendiary devices, were ignited Wednesday morning in front of City Atty. Edwin Conrad's home, 126 S. Whitney Way.

Police said no evidence indicate any connection between the firebombs and a direct attempt to harm Conrad. Minor damage was reported to the lawn of an adjacent home.

The police report said similar such acts of vandalism have been reported in the neighborhood recently. An officer said he believes it to be "malicious mischief by juveniles."

Conrad said he noticed the flames in the street at about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday, shortly after he came home from the City Council meeting.

Police Inspector Herman Thomas said there were no suspects as of Wednesday.

Bomb Scare Routs County Employees

A bomb-scare call to the Dane County Health Department routed close to 30 employees from third-floor offices at the City-County Building just before 3:30 p.m. Wednesday while about 150 other workers stayed on duty in the seven-story structure.

Police checked the area and found no explosives.

It was the 14th bomb-scare telephone call to University of Wisconsin buildings and Madison public buildings and business places since the blast Monday that wrecked the campus Army Mathematics Research Center.

Residents of the Mifflin-Bassett Sts. community barricaded street traffic there about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, claiming there was a scare call that their co-op grocery was to be bombed. Police investigated and found a bomb.

Wisconsin law provides a penalty of $1,000 and one year imprisonment for bomb-scare callers, Asst. Dist. Atty. Andrew L. Somers Jr. said.

Kaleidoscope Blames Both UW and Police for Bombing Death

The Madison edition of Kaleidoscope, an underground newspaper, said Wednesday the blame for Robert E. Fassnacht's death Monday at the University of Wisconsin "lies on the University's shoulders" and on the Madison police force.

Fassnacht, 33, a post-doctoral research assistant, was killed when an explosion ripped through the Army Mathematics Research Center.

"WE JOIN with University Pres. Fred Harrington in extending our sympathies to Fassnacht's family and the families of those who were injured," Kaleidoscope said in an editorial.

"The police have stated that there were only two minutes after the warning call in which to evacuate the building," the paper said. "However, Stephen Boyle, the governor's press secretary, has stated that the

Vendors Assaulted

At least two young persons selling the underground newspaper Kaleidoscope on the Capitol Square Wednesday were assaulted, witnesses said.

According to bystanders, an unidentified middle-aged man caught one Kaleidoscope vendor by the throat and began to hit him across the face.

Bystanders separated the two, and the police were not called.

warning call was made a full 12 minutes before the explosion."

BOYLE, asked about the reference he made at a Monday news conference to the 12-minute lapse, said he had not based the time on any official information.

"It was just a calculation we made on the basis of what one person said regarding the time of the threat and the time another person gave that he heard an explosion," Boyle said.

"We weren't concerned with the time lapse aspect at that time of different clocks."

"I AM CONVINCED, however, that Kaleidoscope is using the time lapse as a copout to the fact that somebody was murdered," Boyle asserted. "Everything else indicates pretty clearly there was not adequate time to clear the building before the bomb went off."

Police Chief Wilbur Emery ordered the dispatch tape replayed Tuesday to dispute the claims of any delay.

The tape indicated the police had less than 2 minutes. Dispatch Sgt. R. G. Birrenkott took the 39-word message and relayed it to University Police in 1 minute and 12 seconds.