

Central park alternative master plan

A proposed alternative plan for a central park between East Washington Avenue and Williamson Street would not require moving the railroad tracks. Construction on the project's first phase could start next year.

